A BUTT KICKIN' FROM MERLIN

By Geoffrey Hoppe

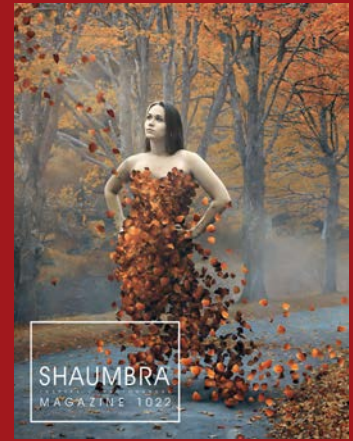

I t's been a little over two weeks since we finished the Dream of the Merlin event. I haven't been able to watch any of the channeled sessions yet because the entire event kicked my butt in a way it hasn't been kicked in a long time. Sitting here on the lanai at Villa Ahmyo in Kona, I'm still not fully recovered.

I'm not complaining or looking for sympathy. I'm simply saying that after 20+ years of channeling, nothing has impacted me the way the channels from Adamus, Sam, Kuthumi, Nikola Tesla, Merlin and St. Germain hit me. Don't get me wrong. I loved the Merlin weekend and every channel. I loved the music from Yoham, and the chance for Linda and I to do our talk on Sunday morning. But those channels.... They did a number on me.

For nearly a week afterwards, I got small electrical charges from nearly anything I touched. I didn't need to be shuffling my feet across a carpet on a dry winter day to get shock when I touched metal. It was happening when I was holding my computer mouse, or touching a water faucet or opening my car door. A few days after the event I was pushing a shopping cart through the grocery store while getting a steady electric pulse through the handle. I had to resort to pushing the cart a few feet ahead of me and then catching up with it to avoid the discomfort. I am not whining, but it sure has been inconvenient.

I usually keep a fairly well-balanced diet, or I should say Linda makes sure I maintain a balanced diet. But for a week after the event there wasn't enough bread, potato chips, ice cream and donuts on the planet to satisfy my junk food cravings. My car automatically pulled into the McDonald's drive-thru a few times, even though I rarely frequent the establishment. "A Big Mac, fries and chocolate shake please," I requested from the drive-thru speaker. "Super-size that order? Yes please!"

I didn't sleep worth a damn for nearly a week after the event. I'd head off to bed about 9 PM, exhausted and already half asleep. Then I'd wake up two hours later, fully alert and filled with energy. After about 3 hours of reading and/or writing, I'd go back to bed and try to get a few more hours of sleep before the morning sun rose. Linda and I flew to Villa Ahmyo in Hawaii later that week. Once here (and back with Belle), I've been sleeping 10 hours a night! And the dreams are so vivid and real. Last night I dreamt that the Beatles came to one of our workshops and wanted pancakes for dinner. Well, at least they didn't want to go to McDonald's.

Every channeled session in Dream of the Merlin was an incredible message unto itself. Somewhere into the second day I was wondering how it would all come together because each message seemed to stand on its own, without an apparent connection to the other channels. By the time we got to the Merlin channel (Day 2, Session 3), I started to see how all of the messages would indeed tie together. The Beloved St. Germain did the last session on the final day. I was expecting a nice, short summary of the previous channels and a sweet message to close the event. I wasn't prepared for what he really had to say. Not only did he bring all of the previous messages together in a meaningful and coherent way, he also dropped a light-bomb in our faces. He called it Heaven's Cross. If you participated in the event you know what I'm referring to. If you didn't subscribe, I know he'll be talking about it in upcoming Keahak and Shoud sessions.

(Insider info: About an hour before the St. G channel, Adamus told me we needed a graphic for the background with stars in space forming a cross. Seriously! Did he expect me to wave a magic wand and come up with something at the last possible moment, and then have the production staff prepare it to project on the back stage wall, all in about an hour? Yep, he did. I jumped onto Getty.com, one of our royalty-free graphic sources. In the search window I typed in "stars, heaven, cross" and hit enter. Lo and behold, there was the perfect graphic on Page 1, Row 2. The production team barely had enough time to load it into the system and test it at the break before St. G's session.)

In the days following the Merlin event, I had a series of pulled muscles and very sore joints. I'm not complaining, but just wanted you to know that these events take their toll. First it was a pulled muscle in my left shoulder. Then my right knee popped out and I had to wear a brace for four days. Then my left wrist, and when that settled down my right wrist went bad. I hadn't been doing any hard, physical work so I had no idea why my body was screaming at me. I had a lot to do to get ready for the trip to Kona. We'd be gone for three months so the house and ranch had to be winterized before we left, I had to finish up projects I'd been working on over the summer, as well as pack for the trip. I got it all done, but with a lot of limping and cussing.

After getting to Kona I realized that I had forgotten Rule #3 from the Channeler's Handbook: Always release the energies after a channel. Do it by walking (i.e. Kuthumi), taking a hot bath with sea salt, getting a massage or howling at the full moon. I was so busy I forgot to take a moment to release the energies of that weekend. Subsequently, they backed up in my body resulting in aching joints, food cravings and disrupted sleep patterns. As Adamus & Friends take us deeper and deeper into metaphysics, it's more important than ever to keep the physical and mental energies flowing.

I've also been rather unsocial since the Merlin event. We had a couple of dinner invitations with non-Shaumbra friends (yes, we still have a few of those) in the days that followed the Merlin weekend but I just couldn't bear the thought of making small talk over dinner, even though they are all nice people. I wanted to be alone, do some graphic designing (the new ALT series logo and some graphics for the magazine), watch some banal movies and read some good books. Going to the airport later in the week was quite a task. I felt like I was drowning in mass consciousness. Fortunately, it's been relatively quiet ever since we got to Kona but that will change now that it's Shoud week. It's not that I'm grumpy, as Linda claims, it's just that people are rather annoying.

No, I'm not complaining or whining. You gotta be kidding! It was one of the best weekends ever. I had the honor to channel some of the cosmic super-stars, as well as the President of the Ascended Masters Club. I felt like we were given access to deep mysteries and life-changing messages. Every moment felt like they were talking to us on a personal and intimate level, with messages designed specifically for us. As a channeler, it doesn't get much better than this. The Dream of the Merlin weekend will definitely go in my "Best Of" reel.

Me complaining?? What's a few body aches, electric shocks, sleepless nights, extra pounds from junk food cravings and Unsociable Personality Disorder compared to the profundity of being together with Shaumbra and the entities for this historic weekend. Let's do it again next year.

Editor's Note: If you haven't yet experienced Dream of the Merlin, it's now available "on demand" as a Cloud Class. No need to miss out on this incredible event!

SHAUMBRA LAUNCH – REGISTER NOW!

IT'S ALMOST SHOWTIME!

Rude Awakening, the much-anticipated documentary, will be available as a one-time only Shaumbra launch on October 15, 2022.

This insightful and entertaining film is about the journey into awakening, and beyond. Its aim is to capture the story of Shaumbra and convey it in an entertaining, down-to-earth and cinematic style, giving our story the standard it deserves as it launches into the world and meets a global audience. This passion comes through during the various interviews conducted with Shaumbra around the world, and in the storyline about a man that begins questioning his life, and then falling into awakening.... A rude awakening. The finished film is expected to be about 100–120 minutes in length.

Registration is now open to attend the one-time online Shaumbra Gala Launch of Rude Awakening on October 15, 2022. Geoffrey and Linda will host the event from Villa Ahmyo in Kona, while the Rude crew will be linked in from Amsterdam, Netherlands.

Subscribers will be able to participate in the worldwide launch and get access to exclusive bonus materials. As a first-viewer, you'll also be supporting the film energetically and financially. After the Shaumbra Launch, the Rude crew has a long road in front of them to marketing and distribute the film to audiences around the world.

Rude Awakening is your story, and Shaumbra's story. It's been in the making since the Temples of Tien in Atlantis, and it's ready to launch now in this Time of Machines. Please join Adamus, the Ascended Masters and Shaumbra around the world for the launch of this profound documentary.

THE RUDE AWAKENING FILM IS IN MY BLOOD AND HEART.

My journey with the energies of the film began in April 2016. Linda and I had just finished a BON Adventure workshop on the Big Island of Hawaii. We went to brunch with Jonathan Kray and Sandra Roggerman at one of our favorite local restaurants. Jonathan's leg was in a cast because he had broken his ankle while slipping on rocks along the ocean. (I've come to learn that a broken ankle is very common among those crossing the threshold into their Realization.) Jonathan, an accomplished film editor, jokingly said he'd love to do a movie based on Adamus' Memoirs of a Master book. For the next hour we all talked and laughed about what that movie would look like, and who would play the role of the Master. Little did we know that this was a cosmic seed of inspiration that would eventually end up as a real movie: Rude Awakening.

Over the next few years, Jonathan drafted numerous scripts for a movie, what he envisioned as the story of Shaumbra going from awakening to Realization. The scripts took many twists and turns along the way as Jonathan and his team brainstormed ideas, made revisions, came up with new ideas, went back to some of the original ideas, more edits, more revisions, until one day the script was finalized and production began.

Jonathan and I stayed in touch, talking about everything from the production schedule to fund-raising. Then, the first full trailer was presented at the Merlin event in Bled, Slovenia in September 2018 to an audience of 500 wide-eyed Shaumbra. It's one of those moments I'll never forget. The trailer started playing and hush went over the audience. Linda and I watched from behind the stage, captivated by the quality of the production. When the trailer came to an end, the audience erupted into a standing ovation. It was then that I knew Rude Awakening would become a reality.

An updated trailer was shown to the Shaumbra audience in September 2019 at Adamus' 10-Year Anniversary celebration. It included clips from many of the interviews the Rude team had done with Shaumbra around the world. It looked like the film would be done by mid-2020. It seemed like clear sailing ahead until....

COVID hit in early 2020. It halted all the final filming and production work. Money was running out, tensions were high, and hopes were nearly suffocated. Most of us have been there one way or the other. One moment you're flying high, then the next moment everything seems to be coming crashing down. It's also indicative of our journey into Realization. One day you're filled with grace, then the next day mass consciousness has you by the throat.

The entire project was on the verge of collapse. I couldn't bear the thought. It would be one more disappointment in a long line of disappointments for Shaumbra. Working with Jonathan and the investors, we looked at various ways of getting it back on track. We did a special session with Adamus. He said to let everything go --- to release all of the energies of the project. It's not exactly what you want to hear when things are about to fall apart. But that's exactly what the Rude crew did. They released all of the energy, the junk, the expectations, their own egos and identities.... Everything. They let go and plunged head-first into the abyss.

The journey of the Rude Awakening film is very parallel to Shaumbra's journey. The passion, the struggles, the gathering of creative energies, then the Shiva-like destructive energies. These are all now part of the film's energies because the film is about Shaumbra.

Like a fairytale (and Shaumbra) ending, a human angel who chooses to remain anonymous swooped in at the 11th hour/ 59th minute and got the project back on track. COVID restrictions were lifted, last minute changes were made to the script, and filming was finally finished. The project is now in final post-production, with the Crimson Carpet Shaumbra launch on schedule for October 15, 2022.

There's so much more, at every level, than just a film. It's infused with Shaumbra stories and consciousness. The average viewer is going to see one thing on the screen, but there will be layers and layers of non-visual and non-verbal communications going on while they're watching. It will be filled with the light and particles of our journey, with all its dreams and hopes, struggles and challenges, and the final fulfillment. Awakening can be so very rude. Perhaps with this film and our stories, the ones coming next will experience more of an irritating awakening rather than an outrightly #@&! rude awakening.

WORDS AND ANGELIC SENSES REUNITE

HOW DAY-TO-DAY COMMUNICATION INTEGRATES

Talking to someone. Responding. Expressing how or what I feel. Trying to find words to describe a sensation or image. Challenging it can be, at least to me. Once a word comes out of my mouth, it doesn't always seem to hit the mark.

This has kept me wondering for quite some time now. How is it that I'm not able to connect what I sense to the words at my disposal, in order to express myself fully? It felt like two separate things. And then, with some unexpected help, I realized that they integrate too. Ha!

This is my story about embodied communication. Yep, still using our day-to-day, ordinary language, but now, through us, coming full circle and joining its counterpart: Angelic Senses.

UNEXPECTED HELP: GIBBERISH

On August 23rd Madame Helena Blavatsky showed up while I was on the phone with a dear Shaumbra friend. I've never encountered Helena before, at least I have no memory of that. Her presence was in response to me having a hard time dealing with strong emotions. Plus, in hindsight, a response to my questions concerning embodied communication.

What happened next during the encounter surprised and baffled me. As Helena sat there, both my friend and I perceiving her, she started talking to us. Wait... was she talking? Out came symbols, energy, codes. It seemed gibberish at first, but then it started to resonate like crazy. We both sensed that this type of communication was very old. Pre-duality even. This 'language' went all the way back to what we perceived as 'the beginning,' as far there is any. This, we felt strongly, was the original language. Wow... We were both shaken to our core, figuratively and literally, as if this knowledge was brought to our attention to wake it up within ourselves. Which it did!

By Frieda Bakker

Helena stayed with me for a couple of days, just being present. Every now and then she came through stronger, waking up the knowledge in me while adding hers at the same time. In those brief moments, this is what she shared with me concerning communication.

The Rise and Expansion of Senses

Communication started out with a few core Angelic Senses. You may argue that they were not even senses yet. Just elements, carrying the potential of a sense. As consciousness landed and expanded, so did the senses. The very first were formed.

An image of the color wheel provides a good example. It has the three primary colors – yellow, blue, and red – in the center and as you expand out, more colors come into existence. This too happened with senses. It's a similar process.

This is our original, soul language. There are no words yet, but it does carry the potential.

Angelic Senses without words do not use energy by the way, do not take time, and do not have to overcome distance in order to be expressed. They just are. Instant.

The evolution and expansion of senses took place in what would be best described as 'the other side of the veil.' Conscious beings with a strong connection to that – such as elementals, whales, Masters, and some human tribes – could tap into it, acting as links or even anchors.

Funny enough, more humans could have tapped into it. It wasn't exclusive. The connection just wasn't made very often, if at all.

The Rise and Expansion of Words

While the original language expanded into more senses, a Point of Separation took place as well. Duality kicked in and the mind as a concept entered the stage, along with the way we experience time, distance, and gravity. At that point, as with most of our memories, the connection to our Angelic Senses was practically lost.

As a means of communication, words (sounds) came into use. They travel through the air, from point A to B, using soundwaves and the human voice as its instrument.

As the mind evolved, more words and languages were formed and created. This was mostly a mental process.

COUNTERPARTS

How Helena explains this to me is that both words and Angelic Senses seemed to have evolved and expanded separately after the Point of Separation. And, also, simultaneously, as counterparts in different realms, much like the Master and the human before Realization. They belong together, but they're not fully integrated and reunited, yet.

200,000 Angelic Senses – and Words?

The information Helena provided to me ties in beautifully with my own curiosity, experience, and insights prior to our encounter.

In one of the Shouds a couple of years ago, Adamus stated that there are now approximately 200,000 Angelic Senses. He mentioned a few; beauty for example. The moment he estimated the number of senses, I could not stop thinking about words, because he was using a word – “beauty” – to express the sense. But the word wasn’t an empty shell. I could ‘sense’ the sense in it while he was using that word.

Hold on. What’s going on? Words. Senses. Words to describe senses. Senses using words to express themselves. Aren’t words senses then? Hmmm. No? At least, not all. Or are they? Maybe not yet. And will they be, eventually?

I opened up my laptop. “Google, how many words are there in the English language?” Oh my gosh, guess what? A little over 200,000! (*)

That cannot be a coincidence! Sure, there are more words if you look at other languages and add them to the equation, or when you add the long lost old ones that we no longer use. It didn’t matter, something clearly hit me here.

WORDS AND SENSES REUNITE

From that moment on I started tapping into words as if looking for their original sense. I realized the word ‘life’ is a sense. ‘Is’ is a sense. Even ‘sense’ is a sense. And on it goes. I can imagine you now doing the exact same thing.

The quest continued and when the actual word ‘realization’ came along as a potential sense, I could now feel and see that the word got its original meaning back. Huh? Why? Because I realized! Before that, the word ‘realization’ was just a word, until I experienced it myself. My realization brought it back to life if you will. The word is not the same ever since.

To me this explains why certain words are already no longer empty or just mental. Sure, it always had its human meaning and describes something, so it’s not meaningless. But when experienced with All that I Am, the word transforms. Its counterpart, the Angelic Sense, comes back and reunites with the word. Which is, of course, what Realization is about: integration. So, my vocabulary is already partly integrated and also expanding with embodied communication as I go.

The simplicity and brilliance of it still stuns me. But of course! The human body is not dissolved when the light body integrates. The human being is not blown to pieces and turned into something else during Realization. Why would it be any different with our communication? It won’t and it isn’t. Words will integrate and are integrating too. Reuniting with their counterparts. How cool is that?

WHAT THIS MEANS TO MY EVERYDAY LIFE

As I integrate and embody more of myself, and thus my words and communication expands and integrates, I feel that when I speak, my entire being – not just the mind – is able to communicate. The path my expression travels – through my throat, to my head for translation and adjustments, and out through the mouth – is changing. I don't have to overcome the gap between what I sense and what I wish to express as much anymore. Not being able to hit the mark or sensations being lost in translation, no longer such an issue.

It's almost a belly thing. Breathing my being as words come out. Together with the offloaded drama that has mostly been taken care of already – think makyo, convictions, aspects, viruses – communication as a result becomes very clean, clear, direct, and pure.

NO LONGER AS OVERWHELMED

That's what happens within me. While conversing with another person – for example one who still has to deal with their own stuff – what I say may trigger them, since to them, the word I use may carry a painful load. This is partly why communicating with someone who hasn't dealt with it yet or isn't ready to take responsibility for themselves concerning the topic, can be challenging.

I, on my turn, may still feel triggered by what the other person is 'throwing' at me as a response. But, first, as I integrate, realize, and become more aware of myself, this becomes less. And second, the Master, the I Am, my consciousness and my knowingness are there. It helps me to stay put in the moment and at the same time take responsibility for whatever comes to the surface within myself. Since the other person is also me.

Thanks to clean-ups, integration, and expansion of my consciousness, I'm no longer caught in the middle and therefore overwhelmed by it. Which to me – as a very perceptive and sensitive being – is a blessing.

LESS RESISTANCE WHILE DEALING WITH STRONG EMOTIONS

The realization of words reuniting with senses also helps me to deal with strong emotions. It's partly the reason why Helena showed up in the first place. For example, it sometimes can take me up to two weeks to realize that what I feel is plain and simple anger. Or, that the restlessness in my belly is actually bottled up tears. "Ah! So this is why I can't breathe right now and become all mental about stuff." As the human I'm now trying to feel, allow, and then express the emotions.

At first it felt silly to me that something so basic as the expression of human emotions can be so challenging to me. Then I realized that this is happening simultaneously with the realization of the embodied communication. Ha! It's the exact same 'process,' but taking place on a different level. The emotions represent the senses in this case. It's as if two instruments are playing the same beautiful song using two different octaves.

Knowing this helps both processes, as they are now perceived as one song instead of two instruments playing. And with that, the resistance towards feeling and allowing my emotions fades away along with the judgement (silliness) within the human towards the human. Plus, the integration of All that I Am is able to come forth even more, in the here and now, which is basically the only thing I want, from head to toe.

MAKING SENSE

With this realization and the insights that came available, communication now makes sense to me (pun intended), and I hope to you too. It's making my life here on the planet a lot easier as it helps me tremendously with my connection to the outside world (yep, that's me too) and the full expression of who I am. I needed some help with that, reached out, and received it. Awesome!

A Disclaimer

The above is my current truth and experience as I perceive this within myself, with added information from Madame Helena Blavatsky as the Ascended Master who collaborated with me on the topic.

I sense that in this instance she represents the Master – even though she used to be a human being too – using the original, soul language.

I represent the human – even though I'm a Master too – in the experience of using non-integrated words. Plus, the experience of staying on the planet, fully embodied.

We both carry the knowledge of these different experiences, now bringing it together, which provides us with pieces of the puzzle, waking it up, and integrating this into both of us. And thus, into consciousness.

(*) Article on BBC.com/news, June 24th, 2018: "... there are an estimated 171,146 words currently in use in the English language, according to the Oxford English Dictionary, not to mention 47,156 obsolete words."

DREAM OF THE

THIS IS THE LIFE YOU CHOSE,
NOW LET IT MANIFEST

- ADAMUS

NOW AVAILABLE FOR STREAMING

The recent Dream of the Merlin online event is considered by many viewers to be the most moving and enlightening Merlin gathering since the annual series began in 2015. As one viewer commented, "Every year I can't imagine how it could get better, but this year topped them all."

The online event was held September 10–11 at the Crimson Circle Connection Center in Colorado with messages from Adamus, Sam, Kuthumi, Nikola Tesla, Merlin and St. Germain, as well as a segment with Geoff and Linda Hoppe and several music presentations from Yoham. Videos of the entire event are available for viewing in the Crimson Circle store.

Adamus and friends leave no doubt about the significance of this time and the big picture of what's really going on. As Adamus noted, "This is the life you chose, now let it manifest. It's the only reason you're still here." The human desires for divinity, freedom and mastery have proved elusive for eons, seemingly hidden away in some far-off realms we cannot access. Sometimes these other realities come through as déjà vu, but now, with the wisdom, maturity and passion of the soul, the door is unlocked and opening. Now is the time to be in your passion, a realized embodied Merlin grounding the gateway to the other realms, thereby allowing movement between here and beyond.

These profound sessions provide a roadmap for where we've come, and where we're going to in the coming years. The information and energies come straight at you without sugar-coating or makyo-vibes. Sam delivers shocking news about his journey, Nikola Tesla explains what happened with his free energy experiments, and Kuthumi, while recognizing the difficulty in staying in the human condition, challenges Shaumbra to beat his record of staying on the planet after Realization. Merlin explains why we don't remember our journeys into the other realms, and St. Germain delivers breathtaking insights into the next part of our work.

As one viewer noted, "The messages were simply stunning. It was like having six cosmic super-stars delivering deep insider information for our small group."

Note: Text transcripts and translations are for the channels only. Video sessions include additional material from Geoff, Linda, Yoham and others.

1 – Adamus Saint-Germain – The Life You Chose (1:15:16)

After an entertaining recap of his colorful history with Shaumbra, Adamus emphasizes that no matter what's happened in the past, this is the life you chose – a life of ease, grace, sovereignty, abundance, health and freedom.

2 – Sam ben Tobias – Soul Mate (1:12:52)

In this beautifully poignant update, young Sam shares about his deep experiences of discovery, love, and loss. While his choices may be unexpected, he reminds listeners of the profound joy of communion and reunion with your soul.

3 – Kuthumi Ial Singh – Twelve Secrets (1:26:44)

Following an insider's report on the Ascended Masters Club, Kuthumi shares twelve practical "secrets" to support staying as embodied Masters on Earth at a time when humanity needs your light more than ever.

4 – Adamus Saint-Germain – Realizations of Your Soul (47:01)

Wrapping up the intensity of the first day, Adamus shares his insights on the messages from Sam and Kuthumi, and emphasizes that you no longer have the luxury of old limitations. In closing, he leads a beautiful and comforting merabh of your soul.

5 – Geoffrey & Linda Hoppe – Crimson Circle Update (1:20:22)

Geoff and Linda give a brief history of the Crimson Circle, where we've been and what's ahead. They also present 15th annual Inspire Consciousness to a very worthy recipient and offer a sneak peek at the opening moments of the Rude Awakening film (no transcript of this session).

6 – Nikola Tesla – Grounding Free Energy (1:37:46)

In his first official "interview" from beyond, Tesla talks about his life, his inventions, and much more. Having realized the "alternating" multidimensional nature of reality at a young age, he brought the potential of free energy to the planet. Now, who will ground it here?

7 – Merlin of Shaumbra – Déjà Vu (1:24:41)

Merlin speaks of the elements of new consciousness, including energy, grace, self-perception, wisdom and going beyond the mind. Finally cooperative, the mind opens to allow the potentials you've already created in the other realms to be experienced here on Earth.

8 – Beloved St. Germain – Heaven's Cross (39:20)

What's the big picture that's really going on? Shaumbra and the angelic Crimson Council have been working together on a most incredible project, dreamed of since the times of Atlantis. It is coming to fruition now, bridging the realms, bringing heaven and Earth together.

HIGHLIGHTS

- The other realms are finally open
- Access has been closed since Atlantis
- All you wish for has already been created
- As a Merlin, you can bring it here to Earth
- Your soul is right here with you
- Remember why you're really here

THE SLAVIC POWER VORTEX

NEW & FREE!

A MASTER'S PERSPECTIVE ON THE RUSSIA/UKRAINE CONFLICT

Russia and Ukraine are playing out an ancient battle on the world stage, shadowed by a very real threat of nuclear catastrophe. As Putin and Zelenskyy lead the fight in a 'David and Goliath' scenario, humanity watches with trepidation to see how far it will go.

But this battle is not about right and wrong or even victim versus oppressor. It is a life-and-death struggle directly fueled by a massive power vortex that seeks only to maintain its existence. How will the conflict end? Who will win, who will lose? Power wants you to choose a side because it needs your energy. In truth, power is an illusion – albeit one that causes very real suffering – and now is the time for Shaumbra to stand behind the short wall, let go of nationalism, and shine your light. This is a very important time for freedom, especially personal freedom from mass consciousness.

During the Shoud of August 2022, Adamus asked for a special session with questions from Russian-speaking Shaumbra around the world. They sent in some tough ones, but he didn't flinch or didn't hold back, describing the conflict as "the last big stand for power issues on the planet." Other countries are watching closely to see how this power game plays out, but the fact is humanity will simply no longer tolerate "bully" energy.

Shaumbra are here for a very specific reason, and it is not to take sides. A big part of your "job" is to help clear out the power vortex by recognizing what's really going on, not taking sides, standing in great compassion and illuminating new potentials.

"We're here for consciousness, not nationalism." ~ Adamus

HIGHLIGHTS

- The time of empire building is over
- Humanity will no longer tolerate it
- More and more humans are ready for freedom
- Russia and Ukraine are actors on the world stage
- A huge power vortex is making its last stand
- Your light is needed, now more than ever

A woman with dark curly hair, wearing a light blue button-down shirt and denim shorts, is holding a bunch of colorful balloons (red, yellow, pink, orange, green, and light blue) against a solid pink background. She is looking up at the balloons with a smile. The balloons are tied together with white ribbons.

OWNERSHIP CLARITY

In a galaxy far, far away, there is a little blue planet, called Earth. It is full of vibrant life, joy laughter and love. It is also full of pain, sorrow and suffering. But most of all it is full of ownership confusion. What is mine?

Even though there are pretty good and clear laws regarding ownership of land, real estate, cars and general goods, there is no awareness or laws governing what emotions, feelings and other nonphysical concepts belong to individuals. Oh, and people like it that way, because they can own just about anything they want, as long as it serves their human identity. What they own can make them strong, righteous, a savior, a victim, a martyr, and whatnot. It is a big game, a great game, but at the end, it is a game of always claiming and never refusing.

By Špela Tajnić

However, this story is not about the general population of this blue marble in space. The general population likes the game and is counting victories. No, this story is about a small group of individuals who call themselves Shaumbra.

Most Shaumbra have had enough of this little game of ownership that's been going on for eons of time. It was fun, but not really. Well, sometimes. Maybe. But now they want out of the game and have absolutely no clue how to make it happen.

As one of those Shaumbra, I can speak about this confusion myself. What is mine? It's a simple question with a simple answer, but we like to make it tough. We tend to get analytical and overly philosophical about it, trying to figure it out – and then not trying at all, because we want to avoid all the distractions and rabbit holes that thinking usually leads us into. So, we are stuck in limbo, waiting for clarity, trying to figure out how to allow instead of just allowing.

Back in a time before clarity, what was mine? Well, did I even understand that question? My perception of the question put me in a rather inferior position, into confusion really, trying to figure out what was supposed to be mine and whether whatever was handed to me was actually mine. This may sound like a very strange perception, and you might say, "No, I do not understand it that way." Maybe it's different for you, but this is what I did for a very long time without being aware of it.

Tobias said it over and over again, "What's yours is what you choose. So, what do you choose?" Being so busy with feeling thinking about the question, I never really put any true awareness or feeling into it, much less allowed the answer. I heard him and thought, "Well, that is all fine and good. What's mine is only what I choose. Great. But how do I figure out what is mine to choose if I have no idea if it was mine in the first place?" It was a constant confused and confusing loop of trying to figure it out.

And then one fine day, during one great Shoud or Cloud Class or maybe Keahak, I finally felt into the question part of the answer, "What do I choose?" and it hit me: "Energy is all mine, soooo... Oh! Of course! Choose what's yours, don't figure! (head smack) My God, how simple!"

All of a sudden, I realized that it was never about figuring it out; it was about choosing what I will take as mine, no matter where it came from, period. Choosing, claiming ownership on something is not the same as figuring out if it is mine. My God, I finally got it.

To make a long story short(er):

Clerk (Dragon): "Madam, here we found some great suffering in bright colors. Is it yours?"

Me (scared and confused): 'Well, $h&"#$, maybe? Is there a tag with my name on it? No? Well, it could be mine. I don't remember having it, but it may as well be mine. Everyone has one, so I probably have one too. Did I lose it? Did I have it? Is that mine? How do I figure it out? Oh, what a pickle! Well, you better give it to me, and I'll carry it around until I figure out to whom it belongs."

A gazillion years (tears) later ...

Clerk (Dragon now wisely paraphrasing the question): "Master, here we have this good old colorful suffering still dragging around. Have you decided on it? It's been years and years; do you choose it to be yours now?"

Master me: "Good God, no! Throw it out!"

Clerk (the Dragon now sniffing, testing, and baiting me): "Sniff, sniff ... But you've been carrying it around all these years. Are you sure it doesn't belong to you? Shouldn't you figure it out first to be sure?"

Master me (finally with clarity): "There is nothing to figure out. I don't care if I had it in my human pocket all those years and didn't even understand the question in the first place. I do not want it now, therefore I do not choose it. Throw it out!"

Clerk the Dragon: "Gladly, Master. It is gone."

Špela lives in Slovenia with her husband, two kids and two dogs. In late 2016 she finally summoned the courage to leave a dead-end job and embark on a pursuit of inner freedom and long overdue answers. Very soon, Adamus' book Act of Consciousness led her to Crimson Circle and a huge sigh of relief. Špela says, "I love exploring and expressing myself in every possible way, but most of all I love translating Crimson Circle materials. Today I think of myself as a metaphysical freelancer, in service to anyone, beholden to no one." Špela can be contacted via email.

RIGHTS OF A MASTER REALIZATIONS OF EMBODIED MASTERS

The realized Master who chooses to remain embodied on Earth enjoys a number of self-evident and self-given rights. According to Adamus Saint-Germain, these are the minimum necessities that a sovereign being requires to live as an embodied Master on the planet. Not bestowed by any other being, these rights are the Master's acknowledgements that the energy is serving them in total grace.

"I felt into all of your suggestions. Not just the ones that were submitted in writing, but the ones that you thought about or perhaps posted online but didn't send in. I took an overall assessment of the Master's Rights, extracted the top ones and reworded them to state it in an affirmative way. So, we're going to go through those now and talk about the Rights of a Master."

CHECKING INTO HEAVEN MARK TWAIN'S AFTERLIFE ADVENTURES

Recognized around the world for his insightful and captivating lectures, short stories and books, it seems that Mark Twain still has more to say! In this delightful and inspiring message, Mr. Twain takes a few moments out of his celestial celebrations to delight the audience once again with his wit and wisdom.

While you may wonder what the preeminent 20th century author has to do with enlightenment and the Shaumbra journey, the answer becomes clear as his story develops. For, you see, the man known as Samuel Clemens was one of the incarnations of soul also known as St. Germain.

As Mark Twain makes his way to heaven at the end of his illustrious life on Earth, he is at first puzzled by the strange reception and then acutely relieved to remember his true origins – but only after a bit of heavenly tomfoolery.

PROGNOST 2022 UPDATE META REALITIES

A fascinating look into the rapidly developing digital realms being created and experienced by humans across the globe. Augmented Reality is already here in things such as hip and eye lens replacements, and swiftly emerging in things like wearable visual augmentation. Virtual Reality began with video games and is quickly becoming more immersive and "real." Soon will be Total Digital Reality where a human can be digitized and uploaded into the metaverse, much like embedding our consciousness into biological/physical reality.

"We are in the midst of a quantum leap of consciousness on the planet... It's going to change everything, but it's also going to bring conflict, because there are those who don't want to change. That's absolutely fine, but they're going to find it increasingly difficult to stay here, to live on the planet in a time of a quantum change in consciousness."

Record-breaking numbers of people are walking away from toxic, unsupportive and uncreative work environments, leaving businesses desperate for reliable employees and supply chains struggling to survive. It's clear that the old model of 'employment for survival' is outdated and collapsing, but what will replace it? The planet is abundant, but is it appropriate for people to be paid simply for existing? What about the vast economic disparity among the extremely rich and the rest of humanity?

The entire landscape of work is changing drastically, and it's time to release the imbalanced energies around making money. Adamus says you shouldn't work for a living but rather live for a living. It's time for Shaumbra to become Standards for a whole new way of living in joy, abundance, creativity, and freedom. Release the old overlays and allow joy and abundance to be the result of how you spend your time.

WORK GOES NEW!

Let's be real. Paying the bills is the bottom line for many workers, and many are in jobs they don't like just to pay for the "necessities" of life.

Adamus is basically telling anyone who is unhappy with their job to walk out. His message is particularly strong for mid-level managers in a cubicle. In a very clear statement he says, "If you're in a job you don't like, you're not going to find your Realization."

[This message] is not only an invitation to look at the changing landscape of jobs and working in general, but to feel into whether making a change regarding your own job is appropriate for you.

MOVING FORWARD IN GRACE

This was a roller coaster of emotion for me to listen to, admittedly "intense" at first sight, requiring a widening of perspective several times to see the other end of the broad stroke. Especially if you – like me – belong to the sorry band of people over 60 years old who currently make up the majority of the work force. Fact is, a monumental shift is occurring in the way people work, and while the gap between rich and poor will widen painfully for years to come, it is destined to arrive at universal income for all humans, from an abundance of wealth created by man and machine together, eventually. I [will] take him/myself up on the current and somewhat urgent invitation to ask ourselves "How can I make an abundant living doing what I love doing the most?" – and then watch it unfold as it must.

~ SS

"QUIT YOUR JOB IF YOU DON'T LIKE IT. BE YOUR OWN MASTER."

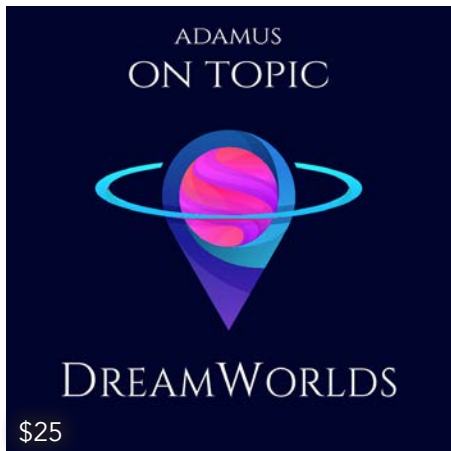

These words are (were) very shocking and provocative for people of my generation (born 1949). I was brought up with: "You must have a job to make a living, look around to see what's there to get. You must have an education. You must work to get money to pay with! You must BE something."

It was not even considered to start with asking oneself "What am I good at? What do I want to create? How do I want my life to be?" COVID started a movement that is healthy. People asked questions about their lives and began changing things to the better for themselves.

So, what to do now for you and me? Take anything – what do you like doing? What are you good at? Or what would you like to become good at? – and then let the energies serve you. Let it blossom. Allow in joy and abundance in your life.

CLARIFYING & INSPIRING

Dreams... I've frankly not been interested ... but this product is something else, dreaming here taken deep into Adamus' metaphysics, and I realize how efficient being 'dream aware' is as an expansion and integration tool. The Q&A way of sharing is a bit unorganized on the surface but feeling into it, it's a simple message, and the music file we get with this product feels almost magical in how it supports the wisdom shared.

A NEW WAY OF DREAMING

I've always been fascinated with dreams... But not until I experienced Dreamworlds, did I understand more clearly what dreams are. When you understand that the human life is simply one of the dreams that you are dreaming simultaneously with many other dreams, it changes everything.

A STORY IS A STORY

This is one of the best stories ever, told by Mark Twain himself. By the way, Geoff is channeling him so well that I do not feel any difference. I genuinely believe it is Mark on the stage, with everything from the cigar to how he moves and talks... It is an excellent example of how we can make the story of our life more entertaining and exciting by exaggerating some parts and cutting out some. One thing is how you tell your story to your listeners; another is how you and I are listening to ourselves.

~ IA

INSPIRATIONAL AND HUMOROUS

I was astonished how Geoffrey was so authentically channeling Mark Twain: Moves, gestures mimic, voice – everything was "genuine" and very impressive. It's all about consciousness and how to tell a good story. AND, of course Mark Twain's attitude and positive way of meeting people is such an inspiration to me... it is filled with funny situations and a lot of humor. I laughed so my jaw and belly muscles ached.

#1 WHAT ABOUT ENLIGHTENMENT?

WHAT IS ENLIGHTENMENT, HOW DOES IT UNFOLD AND HOW DOES IT FEEL TO BE A MASTER?

Dear Master, I've been involved in the spiritual circles for some time and one thing almost everyone has in common is that the ultimate goal is to reach enlightenment. Even though that has always sounded good to me, I still struggle to image how that looks like in real life. So, can you explain what is Enlightenment, or as you call it, Realization, and how to achieve it?

You don't know what enlightenment is, and you shouldn't know, for the limited mind has no way of knowing.

Enlightenment isn't something you can study. Most people think about enlightenment or think about consciousness, and then it kind of goes (...) in a circle and it gets stuck and then it gets your body stuck, your mind stuck, and it can get very depressing.

[Are you] waiting for somebody to come and tell you how to get to enlightenment? Not another human is going to do that. (...) [Are you] waiting for, I don't know, the right alignment of clouds and stars and dirt and bunny rabbits and everything else to all align, and suddenly you have enlightenment? It's not going to happen.

Enlightenment really is not even anything you can learn from anybody else. Enlightenment isn't a course, (...) isn't a mental thing.

Enlightenment is allowing. Enlightenment is, you could say, trusting. Enlightenment is experiencing. It's allowing yourself to experience and to feel all of it. Not just that one tree in the forest anymore, but everything that you are. You can read all the philosophy in the world, and none of it will give you the experience of enlightenment that you can give yourself.

Enlightenment isn't about knowing everything. (...) enlightenment is knowing that you'll know the right thing in the right moment.

And ultimately the real answer is: it's a feeling. Enlightenment can't really be defined.

But at least would you tell me exactly how does it feel like? Or what it looks like?

Release any previous concept about what you thought a Master was, because it's not going to be that way. It's going to be very, very different for all of you.

Your concepts of a Master came from an older place, came from a mental place; it came from a place of power, all of which we're going to leave behind.

The mind will try to imagine, even – a very cheap type of imagination – as you being rich and famous and sexy and having all sorts of relationships and being a grand guru and a Master.

Acting like a Master (From Discovery3 / Kharisma4)

- Allow. Now, you can't force yourself to allow. You can't do allowing like you used to do meditation or some of you even did breathing. It became a discipline. You cannot really do allowing as a discipline. It simply is. Allowing is just that. It's taking a deep breath without any ifs, ands or buts about it, and just allowing

- Put no cause before you. There is nothing greater or grander than you. Period. Ever. There is no God before you. God within, God that I Am, but the God – the true God, the true Spirit – would never put herself before you. (...) A true Master has the enlightenment when they put themselves above all.
- [Be] kind to yourself where you're not being so critical and judgmental, doing the "what if" and "what I should have done." You say, "What an experience," instead of beating yourself up. Being kind to yourself by going out and buying yourself something nice. I mean really nice. I mean really, really nice.

When you're kind to yourself – you buy something for yourself without guilt and without sharing it with anybody else even, you're buying it for you. (...) Kind to yourself by upgrading, as modern society calls it. Don't settle for the cheaper apartment or house. Don't settle for lesser.

- You can actually just trust yourself. And not your past life self, not this golden angel. I'm talking about trusting you that's sitting here right now.
- You've got to have a sense of humor. You've got to be able to laugh at yourself and yes, at others. Or with them, I should say.

"There is an energy dynamic associated with consciousness that moves

It never was about trying to be a perfect human. It was never about anything other than coming back to yourself. It's an experience. It's a total integration of yourself. It is the acceptance.

[It] Is not about being perfect? So, what does a Master's life look like then?

A Master drinks deeply into life. A Master drinks deeply, even into their darkness. Not trying to control it. Not trying to avoid it. Especially drinks deeply of their own darkness, their own sadness.

A Master doesn't have programs. You know, these "I've got to try to reach this goal. I've got to do these things." They don't. You take a deep breath and you allow. That's it.

A Master does their own bidding. They make their own life. They don't have somebody else go negotiate for them. They don't have somebody else go fight their battles.

A Master does not need to manipulate in any way whatsoever. A Master is always in their truth. They can speak their truth openly, honestly, clearly and not be afraid. No power games.

A Master speaks only of the I. "I enjoy when everything is peaceful. (...). I enjoy going to a restaurant." Not, "You never take me out to eat,". (...) Or, "You always do this and this to me." The Master just speaks as I.

In enlightenment, you're not suddenly filled with peace! You're not suddenly – "Mmmmm" – om-ing. That is the biggest delusion there can possibly be. It doesn't happen. Not like that. Matter of fact, the word peace goes out the door in enlightenment. It's not even a word anymore

The Master doesn't suddenly have realization that ends their own stupidity, their own innocence, their own vulnerability. They don't suddenly have this realization that gives them all the intelligence in the world. No. No. They're going to be "and." They're intelligence and stupid. They're vulnerable and they're so open.

[It] does bring frustration and annoyance and anger, and that's why a good Master is a pissed off Master!

#2 WHAT MUST I DO TO BE REALIZED?

ENLIGHTENMENT IS NOT ABOUT STUDYING BUT ABOUT RELAXING INTO IT. IT CAN'T BE CONTROLLED NOR MANIPULATED. IT'S TIMELESS

Dear Master, our last discussion got me thinking. I kind of understand that Enlightenment can't be studied (I don't want to agree with it but I'm willing to trust you with this), but surely there's something I could do to make sure it happens.

The enlightenment is about you allowing yourself to realize it. It doesn't come from here. (points to mind) You can't get there from here and saying, "I'm going to realize. I'm going to realize. I'm going to realize." It doesn't work.

The realization comes with allowing, comes with relaxing.

It isn't something you can stress yourself into. It isn't something you can discipline yourself into it. You can allow it. You can be at ease with it, and then experience it. Enlightenment is truly an experience that very few have ever given themselves. I would say the bold and the outrageous. Some of you would say the crazy.

You can't figure out God, enlightenment, yourself, life or anything else. You don't want to. It's about the experience of it. It's not about trying to figure something out anymore. You're going to get in trouble doing that.

I've been using this phrase, "Relax into your enlightenment." Stop taking it so seriously. Stop working at it. Relax into it. Relax. Oh, just feel that word. Oh! "Relax. I don't have to work at it. I don't have to think about it. I just relax into it."

The beautiful thing about enlightenment is: it's natural. It cannot be controlled. It cannot be manipulated by that singular 'trying to make life a little better'. You can pretend for a while that you're going to manipulate it. But, my dear friend, it is unrelenting. It is brutal in its compassion.

It will release you from your limitations. It will give you your freedom, no matter what it takes, no matter how many tormented nights, no matter how many diseases, no matter how many illnesses, bad relationships or anything else. It's there in the compassion.

(...) is not a mental thing at all. It's just there. You don't have to work at it. Suddenly, you realize the setup. You realize how the energies work, how they come to serve you. You realize how you're your best friend and you're your own worst enemy. You realize how you get in your way. You realize how you compromise.

One of the things about realizing your enlightenment is to also realize your makyo. It is.

It's to realize the trash, the bullshit, the lies, the deception, the whitewashing. Whitewashing right over the dirt and the grime and saying, "I'm just going to throw a coat of good old number one eggshell color makyo right over my crap." And recognize your makyo. Actually, it's a beautiful thing. Never be afraid of it, but recognize it.

Okay, so I just have to relax, mmm... and for how long? I really want to get this over with and live that limitless life you talk about.

Enlightenment is timeless, meaning it's already there. It's already done. We've talked about it so many times. It's there. It's timeless.

It's not a test. It's not a contest. And absolutely you cannot fail at it.

You can just make it ungodly eternal and miserable, but you can't fail. You cannot do enlightenment wrong. The only little asterisk I would put there – you can sure take a long time at it, which is not so bad, because, well when you realize there's really no time and there is time, what does it matter how long it takes.

The question I put back to you is, again, how do you want to experience it?

You're experiencing enlightenment. It's unfolding in time. That's the beauty.

When you get all clustered up, or you get all tight about things, stop for a moment. Go into the other, the "and" – "Oh, I am enlightened. Good" – and then if you want to get back and play in the unenlightened, fine. Take a deep breath and play in that.

And then play in the reality where there is no such thing as enlightenment, because there's kind of not. There is and there's not, and that's the beauty of it.

"Oh no, but don't I need to be doing something?" No.

"Don't I need to be studying, Adamus?" No.

"Don't I need to be doing fifteen minutes of deep breathing daily?" No, not really.

"Don't I need to really just absolutely watch my diet?" Nah.

"Don't I need to think spiritual thoughts?" Nope.

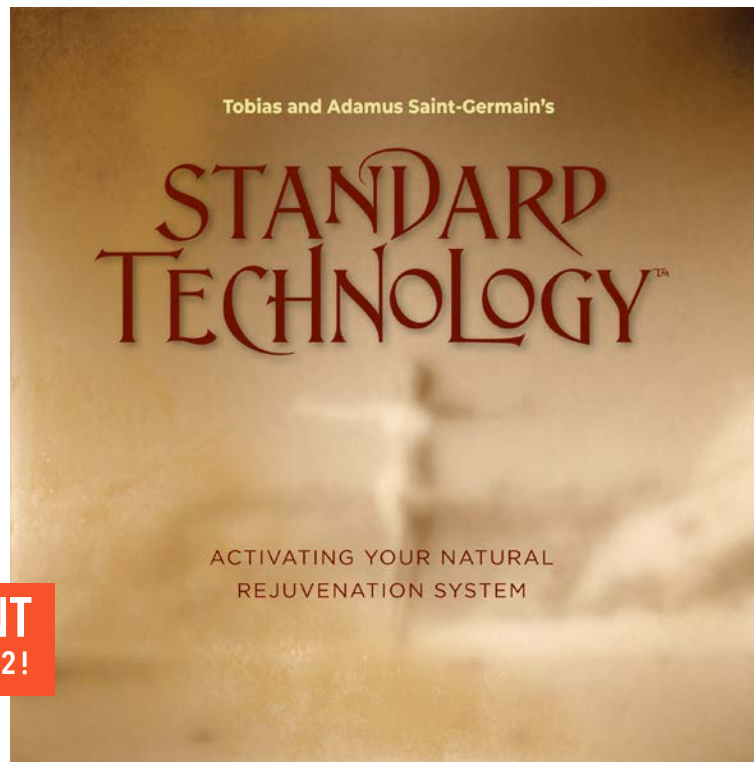

"Then what the hell am I supposed to do??!" Nothing. Nothing.

You can do whatever you want.

ACTIVATING YOUR NATURAL REJUVENATION SYSTEM

Within your body is the inherent ability to heal and rebalance using natural energy communication. After many lifetimes in the density of Earth, the understanding of this capacity has been forgotten, but Standard Technology helps reconnect this innate rejuvenation system. Based on fundamental principles of energy dynamics and physics, you will gain practical knowledge and experience on how to literally heal yourself from physical, mental, and emotional imbalances. The potentials are unlimited, and miracles are possible.

Standard Technology can be experienced on its own or used to enhance virtually any healing approach, whether in conventional or alternative medicine. Attributes of self-trust, personal knowingness, conscious choice, and the breath are integral components, and a true openness to changing one's own belief system is essential.

1 – How Energy Works – Tobias (1:01:50)

When energy gets stuck, it can appear to cause imbalance and disease. Yet every potential for health and anything else you desire is already here, waiting to be chosen.

2 – Using Standard Technology – Tobias (1:12:28)

Energy – and every part of you – moves in and out of this dimension all the time. Healing is all about communication, responsibility, and trust, now experience it for yourself!

3 – Giving Away Your Power; Q&A – Tobias (45:32)

Every part of you has the same basic energy structure and it's all about communication. Don't give away your power to others, for all healing comes from within.

4 – The “I Am” Principle – Adamus Saint-Germain (1:00:52)

Adamus invites you to step out of the illusion and remember. Rebalance the mind and emotions by allowing yourself to know and accept the I Am. It will transform your life.

5 – You Are the Master; Q&A – Tobias & Adamus (1:02:08)

You become the Master when you know you already are. Q&A includes topics such as soul passion, frequent illness, ADD, education, astrology, pregnancy and more.

6 – Trusting Yourself – Tobias (47:20)

Learn about using Standard Technology with clients. Energy creates the reality you've chosen, now experience pure compassionate surrender and trust in yourself.

7 – Repatterning – Adamus Saint-Germain (58:50)

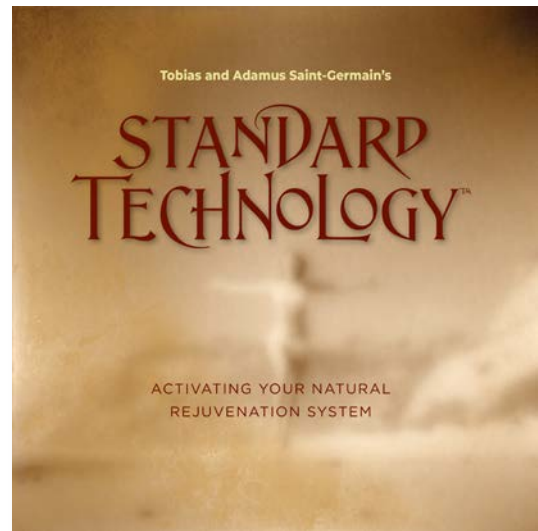

In the physics of self-trust, energies realign and re-pattern themselves to serve you in a new way. Every ache, pain, and disease is information about you and your life.

8 – Embodying Standard Technology – Tobias (51:11)

After a brief review of the physics, Tobias offers a profound experience of letting go into unconditional trust. With no manipulation, life becomes synchronistic and miraculous.

9 – Doing Your Work; Q&A – Tobias (1:16:27)

This work began in Atlantis, and you vowed to bring it back at the right time. Q&A includes topics such as aging, medications, autism, Alzheimer's, stress and much more.

"SOMEWHERE BEYOND RIGHT AND WRONG,
THERE IS A GARDEN.
I WILL MEET YOU THERE."

– RUMI

"GOTTA GET IT RIGHT!"

"DON'T MAKE A MISTAKE!"

"NO, YOU SHOULD DO IT THIS WAY."

As humans, we're usually brought up with lots of rules and expectation from parents, teachers, and society, therefore nearly every decision is bounded by what we think is most "appropriate." If we bring kids into the world, we want to do parenting right – or at least less wrong than our own parents. And for Shaumbra, even though our innate "otherness" often prevents us from "getting it right" in the eyes of others, the innate desire to at least be on the right path is still there. Essentially, most every decision we make is a subtle or obvious response to the notion that we need to get it right. Whether we accept that belief or rebel against it, either way it colors every choice.

Of course, the very effort to get it right increases the likelihood of getting it wrong, for one cannot exist without the other. The right path is only possible when the wrong one is right there beckoning. In my own lifelong effort to not get it wrong, the definitions of "right" seemed to get tighter and tighter until the guardrails bounding my choices created such a narrow path there was little room left for exploration, creativity, and – most of all – the simple enjoyment of life. Veer just a little out of that limited zone and I'd be lost in the vast wrongness of being.

Fortunately, the insatiable desire for freedom has kept me busting through the guardrails (hello guilt), but even with the non-conformist heart of Shaumbra, I still end up trying to get it right, often comparing myself to the rightness or wrongness of those around me. The problem is, with so many external and internalized rules and regulations, it's impossible to live as a free being. Trying to create my desired reality within the boundaries of my own or others' expectations – which, of course, are always in conflict – drastically limits the potentials I can work with. But what does that have to do with everyone else? A lot, actually.

After growing up in a strict home and then surrounding myself with people who always had different ideas of what I should and shouldn't be doing, I internalized the belief that "I'm probably not getting it right." I made incredible progress in letting all that go, fully dedicated to my own freedom, but it's hard to see the limitations one has always taken for granted.

What if I really truly had no more inner rules? What if anything I wanted to do was okay, maybe even grand? What if I loved myself so much that I created this freedom being reflected back to me? Well, funny I should ask. As a matter of fact, I did bring this reflection to myself, and it's been the key to a whole new level of freedom! Not because I needed anyone's permission to let go and be myself, but because having a tangible and constant green light of okay-ness has a profound effect on my human self. The result isn't anarchy (like some expected), but rather the feeling that I can literally do anything! Turns out there's quite a difference between forging ahead despite the buffeting winds of resistance... and following my passion with the warm breeze of support filling my sails. Either way I'll eventually get where I want to go, but the journey is completely different. And that, my friends, is one big reason that we're staying!

After experiencing the actual tangible effects of being around someone who believes in my own wisdom and knows I've got this, whatever it is, I really get – in everyday practical terms – the difference our light can make for others.

Whether we provide individual assistance to people around us or just the warm unseen breeze to sail them home, the supportive, empowering effect of our unconditional trust and compassion is profound. People don't need to be told which path to take; every heart already contains that inherent wisdom. What humans most need is to be reminded that they already know the best path for themselves. It's not about finding the "right" path (which doesn't exist), nor should they fear being on the "wrong" one (which also doesn't exist). The beauty is that without the resistance of right vs wrong, life opens up and flows with the simple joy of experience.

The recent Dream of the Merlin event was profound in many ways, but perhaps the most important message was that the long-standing barriers to the other realms are dissolving away. This means the awareness of our existence in all realms is becoming available, and I think it also means that the illumination we bring is also perceivable in all realms. In other words, if someone is crying out to their concept of God for help, the loving energy that comes back to them – our light – is brighter, closer, and more supportive than ever. It matters not how they perceive it or what label they affix, only that they feel the illuminating warmth that reveals new potentials and fills their sails towards home.

As strong, persistent, and creative as I've always been, the effect of unconditional loving support has still made a huge difference in my life. Imagine what it will do for those who want new solutions but don't know where to start. Suddenly, they will just know; they'll feel empowered, and it will be so much easier to choose what's best for themselves, regardless of what looks right or wrong. The more we shine, the more they see, and the closer humanity comes to "waking up on the right side of the bed" where things flow, energy serves, and grace abounds.

Even you, Shaumbra, can both add to and tap into this beautiful consciousness of unconditional acceptance and compassion that's now swirling around the globe. We already know it works out. We know you can't get it wrong. We know that your own wisdom is enough. We know you already have all the answers you need. After all, we are you, and you've got this!

In the closing channel of the Merlin event, St. Germain said that "Earth is a heavenly realm on its own." In other words, heaven is no longer something we might hopefully attain "someday" by getting it right in this life. Instead, let yourself feel the heavens coming together, the magic unfolding, and "right" and "wrong" slipping into oblivion. Then fill your life with whatever experiences delight you.
